

I am against allowing power companies such as DTE and others to provide internet connectivity over conventional power lines. I believe doing so will create harmfully disrupt communications in the HF area of the RF spectrum, possibly even emergency communications. There are already enough ways for high speed internet connectivity to be provided to customers.